A TOUR OF ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH

The present church building, the third to stand on this site was completed in 1849, sounding the Amen to a prayer of Dr. Philip Slaughter that "the parishioners of St. George's will build such a house for God as will fill men's minds with a greater reverence for his glorious majesty."

The central tower and steeple have long been a familiar Fredericksburg landmark, surviving the ravages of time and war. The clock in the tower was installed in 1850 by the City Council and is still maintained by the city of Fredericksburg. There are three main doors symbolizing the Trinity - Father, Son and Holy Spirit. The vestibule is flanked by two stained glass windows depicting the spirit of Christian worship. The one on the left is centered with the "Sun of Righteousness" and bears the inscription "I was glad when they said unto me, we will go into the house of the Lord." And on the right is a thurible, or censer, with the words: "let my prayer be set forth in thy sight as the incense." We then enter the Nave, or main body of the church, The Nave is Romanesque in design and follows the plan of the ancient basilica, one of the earliest forms of Christian architecture with the columns forming a court on three sides and supporting the galleries.

The stained glass windows in the nave are some of the finest in the area and symbolize the spirit of tradition and service that has been a part of St. George's from its foundation. Starting from the rear of the nave, the first two windows on the north (left) side depict Jesus Christ first as Messiah with the X (Chi) P (Ro) Symbol (the first two Greek letters in the name Christ) and as the light of the world (symbolized the lamp). Next is one of three Tiffany windows showing Christ on the road to Emmaus (Luke 24). This is followed by Christ blessing the children and a depiction of St. Paul before King Agrippa (Acts 26).

We then come to the baptismal font which is placed next to the chancel to symbolize the link between Holy Baptism and the Holy Eucharist, the church's two great sacraments. Moving from the font we come to the foot of the chancel or sanctuary. Here stand the lectern and pulpit, where the word of God is read and proclaimed. The lectern is in the shape of an eagle, a symbol of St. John the Evangelist. Proceeding up the chancel steps past the choir stalls we pause in reverence at the foot of the altar—the focal point of Christian worship. It is here in the Holy Eucharist celebrated at the Altar as God gives Himself to us in Holy Communion.

Above the altar are three windows given in memory of the Rev. Edward C. McGuire showing the ascension of Christ in the center, flanked by the apostles Peter and John. These windows were made in Heidelberg, Germany in the 1880's.

On the south side, the first window depicts Deborah sending Borak to do battle with Sisera, the enemy of Israel (Judges 4). This window was given by the Daughters of the American Revolution in memory of Mary Washington and is intended to represent the mother of Washington sending her son to battle in defense of his country. Next is another tiffany window showing an Angel and lilies, the symbol of everlasting life. This followed by a representation of the resurrection (the women coming to the empty tomb). The next window is unusual, in that it depicts the Guardian Angel of Medical Science. This is also a Tiffany window. Finally there is a medieval style window of the holy nativity and Christ enthroned in glory.
